

Andreas Lykourantzios was born in Tripoli in 1957.

is a political scientist and Member of Parliament. He was elected as a Deputy from the political party of Nea Demokratia in the Prefecture of Arkadia in 2004, 2007 and 2009. From June 2012 till June 2013 he was Minister of Health.

In the period between 2004 and 2007, he was a member of the Permanent Committees of Social Affairs and of Public Administration, of the Permanent Committee for the Environment, of the Committee for the Immigration Politics and participated in the committees for the Revision of the Constitution and for the approval of the European Treaty.

He was an alternate member in the Atlantic Assembly and secretary of the Selection Board for the armament programmes (2004). In 2007 as a Member of Parliament he was also appointed as Deputy Minister of National Education and Religious Affairs.

Within his party, Mr. Lykourantzios, is member of the Central Committee, elected continuously since 1994. Until 2000 he was an editor of the fortnightly periodical of the party. He was alternate Secretary of the Political Planning of Nea Demokratia during the period 1997 – 2000, as close collaborator of Kostas Karamanlis.

In 1991, Mr. Lykourantzios became a founding member of the Greek Association for Atlantic and European Cooperation. On behalf of G.A.A.E.C., he participated in the Association for Young Political Leaders.

Mr. Lykourantzios was a graduate of the Panteion University, faculty of Political Science. He obtained two Master degrees in the same University. He also studied Technological Electrical Engineering in the Centre of Superior Technical and Vocational Training in Athens.

He is married and has one daughter.